Inalco

Inalco is a public higher education and research institution, with its origins in the Ecole Spéciale des Langues Orientales Vivantes (Special School for Living Eastern Languages), founded in 1795, where Armenian has been taught since 1798. Today it is the go-to institution in Europe for lesser-studied languages and societies (counting more than one hundred languages, as well as their cultures and contemporary societal and political issues). It is a part of a prestigious network (as a member of the Alliance Sorbonne Paris Cité, with partnering organizations such as the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique, numerous universities around the world, as a member of the Agence Universitaire de la Francophonie, and the Erasmus+ network).

It grants state-recognized diplomas (Bachelor's, Master's, Doctorate) in accordance with current European standards since 1998, and its ECTS credits are transferable throughout the entire European higher education system.

Armenian Studies at Inalco

The Armenian Studies Section of Inalco offers the most comprehensive training outside of Armenia, covering a wide variety of disciplines (language, linguistics, ancient and medieval history, modern and contemporary studies, art history, socio-anthropology, literature, translation) from the first year of a bachelor's degree to a doctorate in Armenian studies, open to both beginners and advanced speakers, with a wide range of research and professional degrees.

This master's program was created to meet the demand for high-level Armenological educational opportunities, accessible online, and without the French language as a prerequisite. It renders the skills and experiences of a large teaching team accessible to a large number of students around the world. It creates a unique framework permitting advanced speakers of Western Armenian (diaspora language) to practice an intellectual and professional activity in this language amongst a cohort of students from all over the world. It includes courses given since 2017 in the framework of the special diploma « Teaching Western Armenian in the Diaspora » (30 crédits), created in collaboration with the Fundation Calouste Gulbenkian, and gives the opportunity to validate them in a MA diploma (120 crédits) accredited according to European standards.

<http://www.inalco.fr/formations/inscrire-inalco/master-demande-admission>

Objectif Master: the Objectif Master tool helps master's degree applicants to develop their plans, and prepare their applications starting January 30, 2021. Details: <http://www.inalco.fr/formations/formations-diplomes/accueil-formations-diplomes/masters/dispositif-objectif-master-0>

Non-francophone students with difficulties in understanding emails or accessing different resources concerning admission can contact the Student Life tutor of the Armenian section who will help and orient them. To access this service, write an email to master.international@etudes-armeniennes.org with the subject line: TUTEUR. A Zoom informational meeting will be held before the end of the online application period, and tutorials in Armenian will be made available. See web pages Armenian at Inalco and IMAS.

As a part of the application process for admission to the Master 1 LLCER program, and after examination of the application, the applicant may be asked to take a test/interview in order to verify his or her language skill level. The students whom this concerns will be notified by email.

In the event of acceptance, the student must confirm his or her application within the time limit indicated, and then complete the administrative and pedagogical registration (see below).

Admission to M2

For students who have already validated their entire M1, admission to M2 is automatic. Students coming from another university, returning to school, or having validated credits in a DLC4 of Armenian at Inalco who wish to apply to enter the program directly in the second year, should contact the program director before submitting their applications.

Administrative and Course Registration

After receiving a favorable decision from the admissions committee, the student must complete two processes in order to enroll in the program:

- 1) An inscription administrative (IA), or administrative registration (enrollment in the degree and payment of tuition, allowing the student to receive a student ID card) to contact the department in charge of this process, write to: scolarite@inalco.fr
- 2) An inscription pédagogique (IP), or course registration (selection of elective courses, and reception of a learning contract which allows the student to take exams) for this service contact this program's department secretary at: secretariat@eurasie.fr

Enrollment is not complete until both registrations have been submitted.

Attention: "continuous training" registration (expanses carried by the employer) involves specific procedure and fees. Contact: formation.continue@inalco.fr

Administrative registration is carried out online, after the favorable decision of the admissions committee.

Payment of the registration fee finalizes the administrative registration.

Full tuition fee is 1093 € :

- State contribution (mandatory, except for Formation Continue students) to be paid online on CVEC after notification of admission and before Inalco registration (93€ for 2021-2022)
- Inalco's tuition fees: for now, Inalco does not apply the augmented tuition fees fixed by the government for extra-UE students (3770€). As a distance learning program, IMAS fees are fixed for 2022-2023 at 1000€ for all students. A scholarship program will be launched around May and students will be able to apply for a full or partial scholarship from Fondation Inalco and several partners (to be announced soon).
- Inalco's fees include a contribution for BULAC library. However, BULAC registration and access to online resources requires a physical visit to the library desk once a year.

As soon as the payment is validated, students receive an email containing their login information to create an online account, which allows them to complete course registration (inscription pédagogique), consult their grades, and access the platform Moodle.

Course registration (Inscription pédagogique/IP) is required before the beginning of classes in order to access Moodle.

The possibility of international study, in M1 or M2, thanks to travel grants and integrated programs, enriches students' curriculum and their knowledge of the field.

Integrated curriculum: with a learning agreement established before departure, students may validate a semester spent at a university abroad as part of their course of study at Inalco. (For more information, contact the International Relations Department, and consult with the program director with supporting arguments for how a semester abroad works into your personal project).

International internship: in the event of an unpaid internship, a travel grant may cover part of travel and/or living expenses.

Research trip: from two to six weeks, primarily during school vacations, after consultation with research director (for students writing a master's thesis).

The travel funding application period for master's students begins at the end of the semester. Travel grants are financed by the CSIE.

For more information: <http://www.inalco.fr/international/etudiants-inalco>

UE1 – Internship / Project and internship report ARMB510	30
Internships will take place at institutions, organizations, foundations, establishments or enterprises chosen by the student in coordination with the teaching staff. A specific course for Internship Research (in S8. A. Donabédian) helps orient the students' search and prepare for their internships of the following year. The duration of the internship (minimum 100 hours) will depend on the content and the organization chosen, it will confer with the mentor and the internship organization's structure, and the teaching staff. At the end of the semester, students will write an internship report (in Armenian) which they will defend (remotely) in front of a jury composed of three members of the teaching staff + at least one person from outside (the internship mentor, if applicable). The (remote) presentations may be organized in a thematic series in order to mobilize relevant external guests to contribute to the creation of a network of professionals around the class of students. A mandatory monthly seminar (A. Donabédian) on the follow-up of the internship will maintain the link between students in their second semester, and to guide them in the process of writing their internship reports. Students have the option to propose, in place of an internship, a collective project with classmates or with alumni of the program, or outside professionals. This project duly argued (objective, feasibility, methodology, skills implemented, distribution of tasks) will be validated by the educational team with the support of a mentor, a professional experienced in the relevant domain, and selected by our network. Students must submit a validation of their intended internship / personal project no later than December. Defenses take place between June and September, depending on the calendar of the internship.
