

1st
EDITION

TOASEAN Summer School

June 8-12, 2026

Campus Luigi Einaudi
University of Torino, Italy

The TOASEAN Summer School 2026 offers an intensive five-day program dedicated to exploring the development trajectories of Southeast Asia, one of the most dynamic and rapidly transforming regions in the world.

The program is designed for advanced undergraduate and graduate students, doctoral researchers, and professionals interested in Southeast Asia, particularly in the fields of International Relations, development studies, political economy, and anthropology.

Online applications are accepted through to May 25, 2026: www.toasean.it

ORGANIZED BY

Southeast Asian Development Trajectories: Types, Policies, Industries

A Typology of Development Trajectories

Elsa LAFAYE DE MICHEAUX

Inalco & Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CASE)

Urbanization and Connectivity Corridors

Manuelle FRANCK

Inalco & Center for Social Sciences on African American and Asian Worlds (CESSMA)

Sectoral Approaches to Economic Integration and Agricultural Transition

Françoise NICOLAS

French Institute of International Relations (Ifri)

The Role and Position of the State in Development

Jafar SURYOMENGGOLO

Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CASE)

Labour as a Factor in ASEAN Economic Development

Muriel PERISSE

University of Artois, Lille Economics & Management

Understanding "Development" in Southeast Asia: An Anthropological Perspective

Giuseppe BOLOTTA

Ca' Foscari University of Venice

An Anthropological Look at Disasters and Development: Southeast Asian Societies and Scales of Humanitarian Intervention

Silvia VIGNATO

University of Milano-Bicocca

The Myth of the Middle-Income Trap: Re-examining Southeast Asian Dependent Development

Pietro MASINA

University of Naples "L'Orientale"

Domestic Agencies in the Shadow of China: Strategic Adaptation in Electric Vehicle Supply Chains in Thailand and Indonesia

XUE Gong

Nanyang Technological University (NTU)

Partnering with Asia: A Deep Dive into the Asian Development Bank's Work and Opportunities

Marzia MONGIORGI

Former ADB Director for Southeast Asia

In the Eye of the Storm: Singapore's Economic Statecraft in Navigating Great Power Tech Competition

XUE Gong

Nanyang Technological University (NTU)

www.toasean.it